

April 4, 2016

Since we wrote last, we have fleshed out the program for our May 14-15 weekend in DC. Modeled on our ClassACT New Orleans gathering last year, we're planning a fun weekend of creative mingling, delicious meals and conversation, art and culture, justice and support of a great cause.

New Orleans Weekend: Charles Bush, Rick Weil, Marion Dry, Sallie Gouverneur, Steve Milliken, George Putnam, Therese Steiner

May 14, Saturday

Noon: Lunch together near the Hirshhorn Museum

Mall Food Truck picnic weather permitting. If not, we'll meet in the Cafeteria at the National Gallery of Art across the Mall from the Hirshhorn.

2pm: Gallery tour with Andrea Kirsh

Classmate and art historian Andrea Kirsh will lead us through an exhibition by leading postwar American artist Robert Irwin "All the Rules Will Change" at the Smithsonian's Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden.

5-7pm: Cocktails at the home of Steve and Rebecca Milliken

Steve is the founder and impresario for ClassACT Bridge Project JusticeAid and Sunday's concert.

Evening: Dinner together at a Dupont Circle restaurant Steve suggests

May 15, Sunday

10:30: Meet in Georgetown for kayaking organized by George Putnam

Noon: Brunch nearby

Afternoon: FREE

Early Supper: Get together near the Lincoln Theater for early supper.

7:00 PM: JusticeAid Concert at the Lincoln Theatre, 1215 U Street NW

Follow the 48-piece Duke Ellington School Band through the streets of Washington, D.C. and join classmates for a fabulous concert mounted by JusticeAid. The theme for this years' concert is "Juvenile Justice." 100% of the proceeds for the concert benefit The Campaign for the Fair Sentencing of Youth, fighting life without parole for children; and the National Juvenile Defender Center, focused on the right to counsel for children. Bands Ozomatli and Trouble Funk will be rocking the Lincoln Theater. More info below!

ClassACT will be ordering a block of tickets center orchestra at $150 level. Other tickets available: www.justiceaid.org.

Invitation Only: May 10 with Seth Waxman and Bryan Stevenson.

Join the JusticeAid host committee and sell or buy 10 tickets to the concert; OR buy 2 front balcony seats at $250 each; OR buy 4 Center Orchestra seats at $150 by April 15th, and you'll receive an invitation to a discussion on Juvenile Justice with classmate and former Solicitor General Seth Waxman and Bryan Stevenson, whom Bishop Tutu has called "America's young Nelson Mandela about juvenile justice reforms each has won in the Supreme Court, and the landscape ahead.

We hope that those of you who live in DC and surrounds will join us for as much of this as you can. We also hope you will suggest other things to do and great places to eat and drink.
